Dear Hiring Manager:

I am writing today to apply for a position as a junior developer. I found this position through OpenText's online careers directory. The job ID for this position is #7388.

I am interested in this position as I would like to explore cutting edge applications of HTML5, CSS, and Javascript. As an OpenText employee in this position, I would effectively apply my skills with these languages to contribute to sample applications for the AppWorks platform. In order to provide developers with the most helpful examples possible, I would use my attention to detail and software licensing knowledge to write clean, structured, and useful code. I have experience writing HTML and CSS for several webpages and have demonstrable knowledge of Javascript. I often read technical documentation and manuals, and as such can quickly learn how to write advanced AppWorks applications effectively. With my ability to learn quickly, I would be able to write sample code efficiently while maintaining high quality and readability. In addition to writing software in general, I have experience with manual testing as well as shell scripting for automation, which can be combined to produce unit tests. Finally, in order to assist peers as well as to improve my own software, I have experience reviewing code to find errors, streamline functions, and improve structure.

If possible, I would like to schedule an interview for this position when you are available. You can contact me at (519) 884-3168 between 16:00 and 21:00 on weekdays or between 13:00 and 22:00 on weekends. If possible, I can also be contacted via email at kfarwell@member.fsf.org. I live in Waterloo, Ontario and should be available for an interview any time. Thank you for taking the time to consider me for this position.

Sincerely yours,

Kyle Q. Farwell
